As we all adjust to grounded reality, staying culturally engaged is more important than ever. Enter, London Art Studies, an easy and engaging way to educate yourself. The world's first online arts subscription platform, it offers compelling and informative lectures presented by world-renowned experts from Tate, The Royal Academy and more. Members have access to more than 200 films (updated monthly) as well as innovative programmes such as The Academy aimed exclusively at, and hosted by, young people aged seven to 18. Their ever-expanding catalogue of online classes showcases a variety of themes—from ceramics to life drawing; women in art to Europe's cultural capitals. Add to that some regular live Q&A sessions with the platform's lecturers, and even the most severe culture craving is sure to be fulfilled. London Art Studies
